Preparatory Activities

All students who sign up for placements participated in a new venture this placement season. The Career Development Centre planned an extensive training program called the Campus Placement Preparation Module. It consisted of an overall feedback and a training program. The overall feedback is done through two forms – the first one is the 360-Degree form; the second is a profile sheet. Both forms, once completed, give CDC an idea of the strengths, weaknesses, and areas of improvement of the candidate. After analyzing these, CDC designs the required training programs.
